

Hughes, Mayall, Moss, Perry, Petrie and Pinkerton

NURSERIES NOW

A Fair Deal for Parents and Children

A comprehensive guide to nurseries and the pre-school world in Britain today.

Nurseries Now combines a consumer's guide to what nurseries are available with a sensible critique of the gaps, anomalies and divisions in the present system. The authors emphasize the importance of equal opportunities, of more choice for parents in child-care, and of a greater involvement by men in their children's upbringing. Nurseries alone cannot achieve these aims, and the book also looks at some of the other measures needed, including radical changes in the employment patterns of both sexes.

Nurseries Now draws on many sources – mothers' views, recent research, international comparisons and, above all, examples of nurseries where parents and workers are trying out new approaches. The book is a vital account for anyone – from policy-makers to parents – interested in the position of pre-school families in a rapidly changing world.

Cover photograph by Denis Waugh

a Pelican Original

United Kingdom £1.95
Australia $4.95 (recommended)
Canada $5.95

Education
Health & Medicine

ISBN 0 14
02.2056 9